■ Until July 23, Paule Anglim shows paintings by Maurice Sievan and sculpture by George Neubert. Sievan, who lived from 1898 to 1981, made paintings whose haunting images include shrouded figures emerging from layers of thin washes often interrupted by startling flashes of color. In his first sculpture show at the gallery, Neubert presents River Run Series, recent welded steel sculptures that investigate abstract shapes in the tradition of Constructivist thinking. Paule Anglim Gallery, 14 Geary Street, San Francisco.
