

SUNDAY, MARCH 2, 1941

In the World of Art

By Margaret Breuning

SUBURBS

By Maurice Sievan at Contemporary Arts

© © ©

Maurice Sievan is holding an exhibition of paintings as guest at CONTEMPORARY ARTS. It is not difficult to realize the gain which this artist has made since his last showing at this gallery in greater surety of touch and soundness of structure. Streets, urban and suburban, are his subjects, and, in spite of a certain monotony of design, each canvas reflects a mood of place which is sensitively supported by congruous color.

The artist's palette is particularly pleasing not because of its wide range, but because of its subtle modulations of color, and a stimulating unexpectedness in relations of color. "Trysting Place" might be cited as an example of Mr. Sievan's ability to infuse an ordinary scene with a lyrical note without sentimentality. He is a good painter and gives promise of becoming a better one.

© © ©